FR. LAWRENCE IS TO LEAVE

TRANSFERRED TO COLLEGE AT COLUMBUS, OHIO

PASTOR AT ST. MARYS

Will Be Succeeded Here By the Rev. Father Richard Felix, Now Villa Nova, Pa.

The Rev. Father Lawrence, pastor of the St. Mary's Church here for the last two years, has received an appointment as Perfect of Discipline at Josephinum, Columbus, Ohio, a school for the education of poor boys to the priesthood. His appointment was confirmed by the Conception Abbey, Conception, within the last few days and he will assume his duties as disciplinarian there September 7. Father Lawrence will preach his farewell sermon this Sunday and leave next week for Columbus.

His successor, as pastor of the St. Mary's Church, is the Rev. Father Richard Felix, formerly pastor of St. Benedict's Mission at Burlington Junction, but of late giving a course of instruction at Villa Nova College, Villa Nova, Pa.

Since coming to Maryville, July 5, 1923, he has with success filled the position as pastor of the St. Mary's Church, and in such capacity he has had been superintendent of the St. Mary's parochial school, endeavoring at all times to co-operate in such a manner to maintain the school in conformance with the requirements of the Maryville Public Schools, and bringing St. Mary's school in close contact with the health department and Red Cross activities.

Father Lawrence's original home is New York City. He obtained his college education at Canisius College, Buffalo, N. Y., and at St. Francis Xabier, New York City. In 1902 he joined the community at Conception, where Conception College is located. In the year 1908 Father Lawrence was ordained at Conception Abbey and for the following nine years was Perfect of Discipline and rector at Conception Abbey.

From Conception Abby Father Lawrence went to Springfield in 1917, where he was pastor of St. Joseph's Church there for two years, and after two years there, he was transferred back to Conception Abbey as business manager, remaining in this capacity until 1921, when he went to Moberly, Mo., and became pastor of the St. Mary's Church there. Father Lawrence was pastor there until the summer of 1923 and was again transferred back to Nodaway County, where he had been ordained into the priesthood, but this time came to Maryville as pastor of the St. Mary's Church, a parish of approximately ninety families, which pastorate he had held continuously up to the present time.

In his new position Father Lawrence will have charge of the discipline of all the young men at the College and will be directly under the Very Reverend Joseph Och.

The Rev. Father Richard Felix is a son of Hr. and Mrs. Albert Felix of Clyde and a nephew of Aaron Felix, formerly of Maryville but now living in St. Joseph. When a young boy attending school in Clyde, the Rev. Father Richard Felix was a printer's "devil" on the Clyde Times, which was then edited and published by James B. Cummins, now of Maryvill. He worked on that paper for three years, 1903, 1904 and 1905.

BLOCKS CITY BUYING LAND

J. A. SHANKS FILES TEMPORARY WRIT OF INJUNCTION.

LAND FOR OAK HILL

Claims That Addition to Cemetery Would Injure His Premises for Use as a Home.

A temporary writ of injunction restraining the city council from buying the Kuster tract of land, which adjoins the Oak Hill cemetery, belonging to the city, was filed today by J. A. Shanks. The temporary writ was signed by Judge John M. Dawson last evening and is conditioned upon Shanks filing a bond in the sum of $1,500. The bond had not been filed at this time.

In his petition for an injunction, Shanks, who lives adjoining the Kuster tract which the city is about to purchase, states this tract of land to be used as a public burial ground will injure the plaintiff's premises from further use as a home for himself and family that it will destroy the use of the wells of said premises for further family use, and destroy the cave from further use, and render all of plaintiff's property worthless. Shanks alleges that the Kuster tract is so situated that water falling on this property will flow onto the plaintiff's premises that all subterranean waters in the land so intended to be purchased have their natural course onto the premises of the plaintiff.

The temporary writ will come up at the October term of circuit court.

The city council at a meeting held on August 10 adopted an ordinance providing for the purchase of the Kuster tract of land of seven and a half acres of land. According to the ordinance, the city intended to use the land adjoining the Shanks property as a residence for the sexton of the Oak Hill cemetery as well as to beautify it. The part of the tract to be used for burial purposes is not located near the Shanks tract of land, it is stated. The ordinance for the purchase of the land was to have become effective tomorrow.

At Kansas City the mercury reached 103, the highest in three years and in St. Joseph it registered 100 degrees.

32 KILLED IN AN EXPLOSION

MANY ARE SCALDED

Parties Search Beach This Morning For Those Believed To Have Jumped From Vessel to Escape.

Newport, R. I., August 19.—Thirty-two persons are dead, six burned and expected to die at any time and more than sixty scalded, possibly blinded, moaning in New York hospitals, all victims of the boiler explosion about 6 o'clock last night on on the excursion steamship, MacKinac, that was carrying 657 Pawtucket, Rhode Island, mill workers homeward, the explosion occurring off Narragansett Sound training station.

The explosion rocked the ship from end to end, throwing the passengers, mostly women and children into a panic, and then filled all parts of the vessel with scalding water and hissing steam, that burned the helpless passengers and threw them into a wild panic.

Many were on duty this morning in the vicinity of the beached ship, searching for bodies of several believed to have been drowned when they leaped into the sea, seeking relief from the boiling steam. Two are known to be missing.

Passengers filled the three decks of the remodeled freighter, and were caught without warning by the steam that filled every hold of the vessel as the boiler bursted. Crafts of every conceivable description in the harbor were rushed to the aid of the MacKinac and took off injured while frightened and unarmed passengers fought to make their escape from the boat.

There was continuous moaning in the hospitals this morning, some crying out in pain, voicing moans for dear ones lost on the vessel.

All available nurses and physicians were pressed into service during the night to relieve the distress of those scalded from the steam of the explosion-torn MacKinac.

The commander of the ship, Captain George MacVey, was in the pilot house when the explosion rocked the vessel, maintaining a calm in the midst of all the confusion and panic. Captain MacVay turned his ship toward shore and finally beached it on account of the explosion.

U. S. Senator Jesse Metcalf of Rhode Island, was passing the naval training station in his yacht just as the explosion happened. He put about and picked up two men who were floundering in the water. Then he turned his yacht over to the naval authorities in charge of the rescue work.

Most of the rescue work was carried on by naval launches from ships anchored in the vicinity of the training station. Passing yachts offered their services and a fleet of relief ships was soon at work transporting the injured.

Officers beached the boat soon after the disaster and the rescue workers had to use row boats to get the injured to other boats to land.

The MacKinac left Pawtucket early today bound for Newport with a capacity crowd aboard. Passengers said the departure of the boat from Pawtucket was held up more than one hour while final repairs to the patch on the boilers were made. After a day at Newport the vessel departed at 5:40 o'clock.

The MacKinac is an excursion steamer owned by the Blackstone Valley Transportation Company. She made daily trips between Providence, Newport and Oak Bluffs, Mass., a summer resort. This was her first season in this service, the MacKinac only recently having been converted into a passenger boat.

E. W. Gray, Leonard Gray and Francis Cummins returned yesterday from the Ozarks where they had been attending the American Legion state convention and spent a few days fishing in the Ozark streams.

the Weather

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

A CAUSE AND ITS EFFECT.

A good many deserving men complain of the lack of civility on the part of motorists toward pedestrians on country roads. An Eastern man has made a trip through several states as a test of modern day human kindness and he found comparatively few who would stop and give him a lift.

But what better can be expected so long as every tramp and irresponsible boy is allowed to carry a pistol and kill the man who does them a kindness by giving them a ride? Two flagrant results of this have been presented to Missourians during the past week. A boy of 17 killed a school teacher who had given him a ride on the highway and a young criminal of 21 in Kansas City tried the same stunt. He only wounded his victim but took his money and fled. Until there is some cure for this state of affairs and some protection against misplaced kindness, men will be slow to pay attention to calls for help on the public highway.

A man can become extremely tired of being fair minded with people who are not.

Being born poor doesn't hurt anybody but getting over it is where the rub comes in.

Health is said to be wealth and yet there is a lot of health in this country that hasn't been realized on yet.

SOME EVERY-DAY STATE NEEDS.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Missouri's major needs as outlined by Gov. Baker at the State Fair in Sedalia are these:

1. A constitutional fixed tax for common schools providing a permanent fund independent of legislative policy and the fluctuations in general revenue.
2. An intermediary prison.
3. Conservation of the referendum device through changes preventing its abuse.
4. Working men's compensation measure.

These are farthest from being fanciful suggestions or even untried, experimental suggestions such as are urged by those ever on the lookout for some new thing. They are practical, every-day needs of which he speaks, even conventional needs, for which almost every other modern, progressive American state has already provided.

A nearer approximation to equal taxation has done much for the rural schools and can do much more. It preserves a degree of school district autonomy and along with it a desirable degree of local financial responsibility for school support and efficiency. But it does not do enough in Missouri, any more than it does enough in many other states presenting like contrasts in the distribution of population and wealth. In not a few remote districts the income from their property, even when assessed and taxed in accordance with the maximum requirements of the law, is not sufficient to adequate instruction. For their benefit various sorts of school doles are proposed from time to time at Jefferson City, but no plan is as free from objections as that of a fairly apportioned state subsidy for schools.

That is the plan to which Missouri, as well as most other states, is already committed, but unfortunately the gross amount of our subsidy is variable and always insufficient; is, in fact, much less than that of other states of similar needs and conditions. We should have a fund that will be dependable and generous in amount, that will increase automatically as school population increases, that will be replenished from sources of its own, unaffected by other state revenue needs.

The tolerance which not a few citizens of experience show when some young man who has been betrayed into serious fault is not visited with the fullest penalties is often a mystery to other citizens, voicing a demand for the law's unsparing revenges. Deterrents are indispensable and justice, of course, should be substantially equal, but it is likely that the tolerant citizens are much the more familiar with the gross limitations and defects in the system of dispensing justice and imposing deterrents which society has erected for its own protection. The standards of prisons are different from the standards of other places. Their very atmosphere is vitiating. Ingenuity and long success in committing depredations on society are often the basis there of distinctions as real as are distinctions based on service to society outside. For many who have taken a first misstep prisons are only schools in which their feet are trained further for devious paths.

Without an intermediary reformatory in this state, the only choice of judges has been between the prison in which the most desperate and skillful criminals are confined and an institution designed only for juvenile delinquents. With a knowledge of what confinement in the former might mean, judges have mercifully sent many offenders of rather mature to the latter, with disappointing results that have impressed themselves on the entire state. Instead of reforming these offenders, the institution itself has been demoralized and converted in some part into a school of unsocial rather than social practices. The need for a third prison is powerfully presented by the Governor.

The referendum and compensation reforms are just now intimately associated in the public mind. Under an abuse of the one, attempt is made to defeat a just and unusually revulsion of disillusioned public opinion, all the direct legislation devices may be swept some day from the statute if resort to them in a frivolous and fractional spirit continues.

Opportunity for public action on three of Gov. Baker's suggestions will come sooner than may be supposed. A year from November this carefully framed compensation measure will be submitted at the polls. Its approval would fill one conceded need and if made overwhelming might also operate to discourage further misuse of the referendum. And Mr. Baker says that preparations are always being made to submit at that election under the initiative an amendment for the special school fund tax he advocates. It should be cordially received.

SENATOR GEORGE PEPPER

The Pennsylvania Senator would sooner roam the Maine woods on snowshoes hunting for wild game with a fast shooting camera than argue the greatest legal case in the Supreme Court's chamber. That is his chief hobby—the great outdoors his first love.

Among a score of lesser hobbies, the Senator devotes his spare time to farming, mountain climbing, tennis, sailing and other sports. In his youth, the Senator was a football and track star at the University of Pennsylvania, and his love for sports has never waned.

The north woods, deep under a mantle of snow, furnish the Senator with his greatest pleasure. He loves to hike far into the snowy wilderness with a camera. His prize of the chase is a photograph of a huge wild moose taken at twenty yard focus.

Chased Moose

"I hunted this moose with a camera," he told friends afterward. "I chased him for more than an hour on snowshoes, while he plowed through the great drifts, sinking to his shoulders in the snow at every leap. At last I wore him down, and when I came up to him he was trampling down a circle in anticipation of a fight. He was snorting with anger, so I merely snapped my photograph and departed with haste, leaving him standing in his circle of trampled snow. That moose doesn't know to this day what the chase was all about."

The Senator is an excellent mountain climber. He has tested his ability both on American peaks and in the Alps. His greatest objective has been to climb the south face of Mount Katahdin, in Maine, during the winter snows. He has made five attempts, in each of which he failed.

No other man has ever made the ascent, but Pepper won't give up hope. He says he will try again next winter, and the sixth time he'll succeed. Mount Katahdin, by the way, is the second highest peak on the Atlantic coast, and, while often climbed from the north side, it has never been topped from the south face.

On his mountain climbing ventures, Pepper has camped out in the open for two weeks at a time. He has faced great hardships, including temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero and snow ten feet deep, with snow-slides a constant source of danger.

Likes Sailing

The Senator also is fond of sailing. He owns an eighteen-foot sloop, which he sails each summer in Maine waters. He will sail his little vessel down the Maine coast from sunrise to sunset, land and camp ashore overnight, making a return trip the following day. That, too, is a source of real pleasure to the Senator.

When not in Washington or on a vacation trip, the Senator lives on a 177-acre farm near Devon, Pa., a short distance from Valley Forge. He swings a "mean axe," according to his neighbors, and enjoys a local reputation as a carpenter.

"Mrs. Pepper is the scientific farmer of our family," the Senator explains. "I do the heavy work with a pick and shovel and an axe."

Pepper chops firewood, repairs damaged buildings, and he has used his carpentry knowledge even to build miniature ship models.

"I like best," he adds, however, "to get out on the farm and take hold of an axe."

Heavy Eater

His weakness is eating. The Senator loves hearty meals.

"I've never really had enough to eat," is his plaint. "Many times I've faced the opportunity of getting enough to satisfy my appetite, but I've always had to stop because of my capacity. It's a weakness, and I have to struggle continually to keep my weight down."

Back in 1883 and 1884 Pepper was an athletic star at the University of Pennsylvania. Today he plays an "old man's game" of tennis—too young yet for golf—and he is an ardent baseball fan. In 1914 he defended organized baseball in litigation caused by the Federal League's meteoric career. He personally drafted the agreement entered into by the American and National leagues when peace was finally restored. Recently he has used his influence toward the erection of a permanent memorial to baseball in the national capital.

The Senator also devotes much time to reading, particularly on obscure legal points. His great legal attainments have won him wide recognition and many honors, including a dozen university degrees. He is also the author of many legal essays, a number of law books and several digests of legal opinions.

But though he won his right to fame in a courtroom, the Senator's first love is the great outdoors.

Tomorrow—Senator Thomas J. Walsh

Eat FISH For Health

During recent years eminent professors who have studied the modern science of nutrition have proven conclusively that most sickness is directly or indirectly caused by improper diet. If our bodies are in good condition, resistence to all germ diseases is much greater. Fish contain the following elements, necessary to the health of the grown body: Phosphorus, sulphur, chlorine, potassium, calcium, magnesium and iodine. Some of these elements are found in all foods, most foods, however, are deficient in phosphorus, calcium and iodine. To enable the people of this community to serve a well balanced meal nearly every day of the week we will hereafter have fish every Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Rain Is More Than Normal Over State

Pastures Favorably Affected and Soil Put in Good Condition for Plowing.

In Missouri the week's weather was made up of normal warmth and sunshine, and normal to more than normal rainfall over most of the State. Pastures and most growing crops were favorably affected, and soil was put in good condition for plowing. More rain is needed in about ten of the central-western counties from about Johnson and Pettis south to Polk and Dade thence west to Barton; and also locally in some of the southeastern counties from St. Francois southward.

The seasonal rainfall to date is 14.04, the 36-year normal 15.49 inches. The normal rainfall for the four months May to August inclusive, is 17 inches; 14 inches will make a normal corn crop if it falls before August 15.

Corn has been greatly benefited by the generous rains of the last two weeks, except that they were insufficient locally in the southeast from St. Francois southward, and in about ten or more of the central-western counties having Henry and Hickory as the center. In much of this latter section the rains came too late for full benefit. The bulk of the corn crop is in good shape, and, with favorable weather, will be so far matured in the next 30 days as to be safe from any frost damage.

Pastures as well as most minor crops are no wdoing well. Fall plowing is getting underway. The Ozark peach crop is about one-third of normal; the apple crop about one-half.

Cotton is making good progress but the lighter soils need rain; it is blooming profusely and opening quite generally. A bale was ginned at Caruthersville. This doubtless is premature caused by dry weather.

"Cheaper to Marry' Is Better Than the Novel

While holding all of the intense dramatic appeal of the stage play, the screen version of "Cheaper to Marry" which shows at the Empire Theater tonight and tomorrow, is far more colorful than Samuel Shipman's original story.

In addition to an exceptional cast, the director has brought into the film noted dancers for his cafe scenes and fifty of the most beautiful bathing girls in California to the sequence devoted to showing intimate happenings in an exclusive women's athletic club.

Wanted Wilson to Delay Marriage

The inside story of a courtship that overshadowed a residential candidacy is told for the first time in this week's Liberty by Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the Secretary of the Navy during President Wilson's administration. "When Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Became an Asset and Not a Liability" reveals how the Democratic Party leaders all but succumbed to fright before December 18, 1915, when Edith Bolling Galt and Woodrow Wilson were married.

"The election in 1916 was admittedly in doubt," Mrs. Daniels writes. "It was a foregone conclusion that Wilson would be renominated by acclamation. It was almost a panic. They were almost all—I mean those particularly in official positions in and around Washington—of the opinion that if the President remarried before November, 1916, he would destroy all chances of re-election. Looking back from this distance, it is not easy to understand why they were so convinced but it became an obsession with them. Many informal conferences were held. What could be done? Could anything be done?

"The wives of the politicians and other women had decided views. The first Mrs. Wilson had been dead only a little less than a year. They didn't like the idea of his remarrying so soon. 'Let him wait until after the Presidential election if he must marry again.' That was the opinion on Capitol Hill. While that was the opinion as to the aspect in politics, few believed President Wilson would permit political considerations to outweigh an affair of the heart, if his heart were really involved.

"A cabinet member called on my husband in the early fall of 1915 and told of how scores, yes, hundreds, of prominent Democrats all over the country had been coming to see him or writing him letters. He said they all believed that victory the next year was impossible if the President remarried before the election. Senators, members of the House of Representatives, national committeeman, chairof State commimitteeman, influential editors whose support was essential to secure victory were quoted.

"He told of a conference of Democratic party leaders that had just been held. Then came the shock of my husband's life. 'At the conference we all decided that you were the man to go to see the President,' the Cabinet member said to Mr. Daniels, 'acquaint him with the situation, and urge him to think of the party's success and not to jeopardize history for next year.'

"'We discussed at some length the question of who was the best man to go to see the President, and decided upon you because we know his relations with you are those of warm friendship and you have the tact to do it in the best way.'

"It is not necessary to quote the words Mr. Daniels employed in declining the distinction of being Minister Plenipotentiary and Ambassador Extraordinary to the President of the United States.

"Asked by a friend why he had been so firm in his refusal to try to persuade Woodrow Wilson to delay his marriage, Mr. Daniels afterward said:

"'As a matter of fact, if I had felt as deeply about the matter as my colleague, and my acquaintance with Mrs. Edith Galt had justified such action, my mission would have been to her and not to the prospective bridegroom. If she could have been persuaded to postpone the day, because delay was essential to the re-election of Mr. Wilson,-success might have been possible. But no man, after pressing his suit, could ever draw back with honor. My colleague, intent only on carrying the next election, had failed to take that into consideration.'"

Worleys Leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Worley left today for their home in Cleveland, Ohio, after an extended visit at the home of Mrs. Worley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Holt. Miss Ruby Worley of Denver, a sister of Mr. Worley, who has been visiting at the Holt home, left today for St. Louis where she will visit enroute to the East.

HARMONY

R. V. McKee and family were transacting business in Ravenwood and Maryville last Saturday afternoon.

This neighborhood was visited by a 4 inch rain Sunday night and Monday morning that put all the creeks out of bank: Long Branch, Mozingo and Honey Creek were all on a rampage, though they soon run down and but little damage is reported. A wind which accompanied the storm tangled up the corn and in a few instances blew it over quite badly. In some places where the tall stalks lodged across the road, the road overseer had to clear the track before traffic could be resumed. Everything is about normal again at this time.

Registration Day at the High School brought out a good enrollment, though some could not be present, unfortunately Mrs. Ford, who was on a visit with friends in Stanberry was kept away because of muddy roads. From all appearances we will enroll more this year than at any time in the past. School begins in all departments on August 31.

Quite a number of the orchestra met at the G. H. Null home Friday evening of last week for practice.

Now if everybody would trim the hedges and mow the weeds along the roads, it would help the appearance of things immensely.

The wet weather has temporarily stopped fall plowing in this neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Marsh of Winner, S. Dak., visited at the home of John Green last week.

James Evans and wife, and son Roland and family were Sunday visitors at the home of B. S. Cox.

J. F. Flanary drove a truck load of hogs to the St. Joseph market last Friday. The hogs belonged to Eugene Flanary, who accompanied the shipment to St. Joseph. They report a very satisfactory market.

With threshing about over, some very good yields of oats are being reported. Otis McCall had a five acre patch that made 73 bushels per acre. John Green reports a thirteen acre field that averaged 60 bushels to the acre but considering the size of the field, perhaps Arch McElroy leads with a 32 acre field yielding 60 bushels per acre. Oats in this vicinity are a good quality, in nearly every case they weighed more than the measure indicated.

Ernest Monroe came in from northern Wisconsin, last Monday. He had been working in a wood pulp mill since last fall.

Rev. Max DeWeese of Des Moines, visited his sister, Mrs. John Green and family the middle of last week, while enroute to points in Kansas. Rev. DeWeese is the popular pastor of one of the leading churches in the Christian denomination in Des Moines.

QUESTION NO. 968,754.

Litle Reggie: Mamma, where did you get this egg?

"From Grandma's chickens, dear."

"Well," said Reggie, "how do granny's chickens know the size of our egg-cups?"—The Progressive Grocer.

Chicago Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Aug. 19. — Grain futures made sharp advances in today's session on the Board of Trade. Wheat led with gains of 2 7-8c.

Wheat shot upward quickly on spirited buying credited to local and eastern buying. News developments were behind the bull undertne.

Unfavorable figures regarding corn prospects in the Southwest coupled with crop complaints, created good buying support in corn. Offers were light.

Oats trade was light but prices were higher in sympathy with other grains.

Short covering and buying by cash houses boosted provisions notwithstanding lower hogs.

LIVE STOCK PRICES AT KANSAS CITY

By Kansas City Livestock Exchange.

Kansas City was the only market that developed any strength in the cattle division in the first two days this week. Here receipts were moderate, a sort of a pause in the heavy movement, and requirements from all sources remained large. At more northern markets and Chicago, receipts of cattle were increased materially with supplies from the Sand Hills, northwest states and Canada. Dakota, Montana, Wyoming and Canadian cattle are coming fatter this year than for several years past, and where they come in competition are outselling western and southwest cattle. In the opinion of many the runs of Kansas and Oklahoma grass fat cattle, which started so much earlier than usual, have reached maximum proportions for this year, and while receipts will remain liberal through October no record will be established. Cattle that show dry feed are scarce and will remain so for some time to come. Grass fat cattle are showing better condition than in former weeks, and the better classes are being called on to fill in the shortage of fed classes. Fleshy feeders are going back to the country in considerable supply, but not in large enough numbers to increase fat cattle later.

This week choice steers full fed grain and grass brought $14 to $15, no straight dry lot cattle arrived. Good to choice steers, having had varying amounts of feed, brought $12 to $13.75, and wintered steers $10 to $11.75. In all probability prices for fed cattle now are at the highest level of the year. The eastern demand for choice beef is decreasing and present prices are about all the trade will stand. Lower priced kinds are being called for more generally. Grass fat steers are holding steady, at a price range of $5 to $10, few above $9.50, and only ordinary kinds under $7.

Cows and heifers are slightly higher The recent improvement in range conditions has decreased the movement of grass fat classes, and it now appears, that Texas, which is counted on for liberal supplies in September will market few cows, heifers or calves. The bulk of the canners brought $2.90 to $1.15; cutters $3.25 to $3.75, and butcher cows $3.85 to $6.50. Fed cows sold up to $8.25. Grass fat heifers are bringing $4.50 to $8.50; fed grades $9 to $12.75. Veal calves are higher, best selling up to $13.

Trade in stockers and feeders remains active. Last week 25,500 were bought and shipped back to the country, and the outbound movement this week is larger than in the corresponding days last week. Prices are holding firm to slightly higher.

The hog market has taken a decline and today prices were the lowest since the third week in June. Today's decline was 25 to 40 cents, and some of the good hogs sold under the 13 cent level. The top price was $13.10, except pigs which sold up to $13.35, and bulk of sales $12.75 to $13.10. Practically all weights from 160 pounds up were included in the bulk. Packing sows sold at $11.65 to $12, and stock hogs and pigs brought $12.75 to $13.35.

Lambs were quoted strong to 25 cents higher, and sheep firm. The only lambs offered were natives that brought $14.50 to $15, the highest prices for some time past. Western lambs were quoted at $15 to $15.35, and feeding lambs $13.50 to $14.50. Wethers sold at $7.50 to $8, and ewes $6.50 to $7.50, with choice young breeding ewes up to $12.50.

Indian Beauty Here Tomorrow

Princess Morning Dew! What an odd name and what a beauty she is. She is a full blooded Indian princess with all of the warring blood of the Brule-Sioux flowing through her veins. In a contest for beauty among all of the Indian maidens she took the prize. The outlines of her face and figure are absorbingly Indian She, without doubt, is the most beautiful Indian princess in all of the world. In many features and in size and weight she reminds one of Pocahontas.

Born upon the Sioux reservation eighteen years ago, she went to school, learned the English language and became an adept in music and in art. Her father and mother were with the old show people of the reservation and when she had finished school she announced that she was going along and go with the Robbins Bros. circus. That's how she happens to be with the world's greatest circus. She appears in the Indian ceremonial performances and plays her part to perfection. She is modern, however, for she recently bobbed her hair

Strongs Return From Ozark Trip

They See Former Nodaway County People and Predict Big Tourist Future for the Ozarks

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Strong returned last night from a motor trip to several points in the Ozarks, going as far as Eureka, Ark. At Ozark, Mo., they visited Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Tulloch, formerly residents of Barnard, and the parents of I. E. Tulloch of Maryville and John Tulloch of Barnard. Mr. and Mrs. Tulloch have a fruit farm at that place. Mr. Strong brought home with him several peaches taken from Mr. Tulloch's fruit farm and they measured about ten inches in circumference.

Mr. and Mrs. Strong also visited at Cross Timbers, Mo., with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Porterfield, formerly residents of the Pickering community.

Mr. Strong was much impressed with the Ozarks and predicted that within a few years it will be one of the best places for tourists. The roads are in good shape in that section, Mr. Strong says.

Judge John M. Dawson returned yesterday afternoon from Rock Port on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs. Lafe Dawson. Judge Dawson went back to Rock Port late last evening as he is presiding over circuit court there.

GOOD DISPOSITIONS INVALUABLE

You can't watch your disposition too carefully. A crab and a grouch are rarely successful. If your liver and stomach are in an unhealthy condition you can not have a sunny disposition because they affect the brain as well as the entire system. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has been usually successful in such cases. Our advice to everyone troubled in this way, especially when accompanied with bloating in the stomach, is to try this remedy. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. Forestry Department of Mo. Is Created

Sedalia, Aug. 19: Announcement was made this morning that a department of forestry was created by the state board of agriculture in an executive meeting at the Fair Grounds here last night.

Frederick Dunlap, Democrat, of Columbia, was named head of the board and given the title of state forester, for a term of two years and was given a salary of $3,000. The last session of the state legislature created the board of forestry but funds for its maintainance was vetoed by Governor Baker in his tax reduction program, so the State Forestry Association raised the sum of $10,000 by private subscriptions and turned it over to the board of agriculture for that purpose.

Mr. Dunlap's office will be with the agriculture board at Jefferson City. The first thing on the program of the newly created board will be a publicity campaign in which it is hoped to tell the people of the state's resources in timber and urge them to save the trees from destruction.

Kellers to Arkansas.

Mrs. Fred Keller and children will leave tomorrow for Springfield and from there will motor to Jonesboro, Ark., to visit Dr. Keller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Keller. Dr. Keller will join his family there August 28 and two days later there will be a family reunion. They will also visit Mrs. Keller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lucas, at Fayetteville, expecting to return home about September 8.

Charles F. McCaffrey and nephew, Joe Leuck, Jr., visited yesterday at Rock Port where Mr. McCaffrey went on business in connection with the Atchison County circuit court.

Man of 80 Years Completes Trip of 800 Miles Alone in Old Style Auto

All ye staunch men of former days, who lashed the oxen and of whom we read about in your hardships to settle the Great plains states of the Middle West, who tilled the soil with crude machinery and who took months and months to work your way westward to establish homes on the virgin soil, rise out of your graves and hear of a modern crusader, of four score years, who alone recently braved the perils of modern travel in a vehicle of the present age.

Would any of you attempted as hazardous a journey over the paved roads, (and otherwise) passing innumerable of the whizzing automobiles, facing possibilities of engine and tire troubles, and driving through large cities where the traffic rules are so complicated that the traffic cops have to carry around a book of ordinances, at the ripe old age that Ben Kirtley has arrived? And Mr. Kirtley, one of Maryville's oldest carpenters, drove his Chevrolet of many years' wear and tear, at least ten, to points in Oklahoma to visit his brother and friends in that state. There is a challenge out, issued by red-blooded young men of the city, that there isn't another person in the county who can make this trip of some 800 miles in this same automobile and return and do it as well as Mr. Kirtley did.

Mr. Kirtley spent two weeks in Oklahoma, and upon returning to Maryville a couple of days ago, his friends remarked they were pleased to know that he made the journey without any mishaps and were glad to see him home again. To which he replied that "any time Ben Kirtley starts anyplace he gets back," mentioning that he has traveled all over the country and has been to California upon more than one occasion.

This old-young man, is famed for his ability to work, and he is reported to have finished everything he has ever started, no matter how late he has to labor. During the hot summer months this carpenter has very few equals in enduring the heat when working in the sun, and he has "worked down" many a man many years his junior.

It is said that he is as reliable in remembering dates of events that took place in this county during the early years, as is his fellow Nodaway County early settler, Cooper Gooden, his memory retaining the historic episodes of this county for the last six decades.

Burtons Lease Bartram Property.

Irvin Bartram has leased his stucco house at 611 W. 2nd street for a year to W. T. Burton and family. Mr. Burton purchased the grocery business of J. W. Ray at the corner of Market and Third streets Monday and is moving here from St. Joseph. The Bartram family will move to the house east of their present home, which is being remodeled.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Dillinger and son, Billie, of St. Joseph motored here last evening to visit Mrs. Dillinger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Armstrong. They are on the way home from a vacation trip to Salina, Kan., and Steele City, Neb. Mr. Dillinger is pastor of the Wyatt Park Christian Church in St. Joseph.
